

PUTS MCGOVERN IN PECULIAR POSITION

BULL MOOSERS ENDORSE HIS CANDIDACY ON THEIR PROGRESSIVE SLATE.

MUST CHOOSE TICKET

His Name Can Not Appear On Both Ballots—May Mean Break With LaFollette.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Milwaukee, Sept. 25.—The Bull Moosers have spoken and it is now up to Governor McGovern to decide whether he will accept the nomination of the Bull Moose party or withdraw from the republican nomination. Of course it would be a big boost for the Roosevelt faction of republicans to have him remain on their ticket but when the Governor stops to consider that if he does this he breaks with LaFollette and all claim to republican regularity is gone, he may decide to decline the honor thrust upon him.
His endorsement by the Bull Moosers at the meeting of their executive committee at the Pfister Hotel yesterday was a surprise in view of the fact that McGovern has made no public statement of his endorsement of their platform and candidate. True he has been in close touch with the Bull Moose leaders, Cochems and others, but has denied he would make any declaration of faith with them repeatedly. Perhaps, however, the rebuffs he is receiving from LaFollette may cause him to seek election under a strange banner.
The endorsement came after the committee had been in session and out of session nearly all day waiting for Mr. LaFollette to appear. Mr. LaFollette made a deal with the Roosevelt element and all who took part in the fiasco have already felt the displeasure of the senator who is not one to forget an injury. What this latest move will mean is hard to say.
The announcement of McGovern's endorsement was made by Mr. Baker, chairman of the Bull Moose committee.
"The governor," said Mr. Baker, "stands for the same things as we do. He stands for the naturalization of the progressive principles for which we are fighting; therefore we endorse him. We saw no reason why all progressives should not stand together. He has endorsed our principles. Nothing was said regarding any statement from him."
Governor's Hand Is Forced.
"His democratic opponent has not endorsed our principles and to put up a state ticket would mean the defeat of McGovern," said a member of the committee who stood by. In this he seemed to give away the real motive of the action of the committee and those who were fighting to save off another ticket in order to save the governor. On the other side they have forced the governor's hand.
When asked if a state ticket other than for governor would be put up, Mr. Baker said that he had no say in the executive committee, and said that wherever candidates did not come out for the bull moose principles candidates would probably be put up against them, whether on the state, congressional or legislative tickets. A decision on this matter would be reached in a short time, Mr. Baker said.
Those present were: W. S. Griswold, J. P. Armstrong, A. Washburn, C. Lush, F. E. Davidson, Hugh Blair, H. C. Schroeder, R. O. Schomberg, Dr. E. Gates, E. P. McPetridge, Arne Johnson, Grant Phillips, George Senn, Dr. R. C. Osgelvie. Those represented by proxy were: Dr. Taylor, A. J. Provost, W. F. Koehn and John Pattengill.
Now comes another element into the state fight. The desertion of Earl Williams of Ashland from the Karel and LaFollette endorsement of McGovern and the endorsement of McGovern by the Bull Moose party is a power in northern Wisconsin and his statement made public yesterday is as follows:
"Mr. Williams reviews in his statement the action of the democratic state platform convention and Judge Karel's declarations made before a committee there aiming at compromise and harmony.
"Mr. Williams says it was an error of the platform builders 'after Karel's primary speeches denouncing a state income tax of any description, to grant his wishes in passing condemnation on this great democratic principle, when not only have Williams and Bryan vigorously upheld the income tax in both state and nation as right and just but particularly when our candidate for vice president, Gov. Marshall, Indiana, has been fighting for a state income tax for Indiana against the same tax dodging elements and the same reactionary citizenship that opposes it in Wisconsin."
Democratic leaders here are of the opinion that it will hurt Karel's chances at all and really drive into camp many republicans who might otherwise have voted for the regular republican nominee. The democratic headquarters will be opened the last of the present week by Paul Henmy who has rented rooms in the Plankington block.

Duluth Car Men Willing to Bring About Settlement of Difficulty.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Duluth, Minn., Sept. 25.—Willing to end the strike the union car men of Duluth today made known their terms upon which they would return to work. These include all men now on strike to be taken back without prejudice with the exception of the nine originally discharged; the case of the nine to be arbitrated and they to be reinstated, if they were discharged because of the union. That the company not be asked to recognize the union or open shop, but no objections to unionism. That the "spread" of hours which now requires men to be on duty from 13 to 16 hours to get in ten hours a day be changed to a 12 hour "spread"; that no increase in the wage schedule is asked; corruption of the demerit system, the rule that the men are to be on duty ten minutes before time, be modified. The car company general manager refused these terms. "There is nothing to arbitrate," he said. "The street car company will appeal to the state supreme court against the decision of Judge Dibble ordering the company to resume car service. The appeal will act as a stay, as the writ of the court will be suspended."

TAFT INTERVIEW IS GIVEN PUBLICATION

New York Evening World Publishes Statement From The President On Cost of Living.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
New York, Sept. 25.—The Evening World today published an interview with President Taft in which the president goes at length into some of the current issues of the campaign. The president promises a revision of the tariff on a scientific basis so far as may be necessary to keep prices from being exorbitant. This may be done by the continuation of the tariff board's investigation into the facts, the president is quoted as saying. The president then hinted at an extra tariff revision session in case the republicans should be in control of the next congress.
Referring to the high cost of living the president expressed the opinion that American workmen were very much better off than the workmen of Europe. Not only were they able to pay the high cost of living, he said, but they could put aside something for a rainy day. The Payne tariff law had no more to do with advancing the high cost of living than the latest Atlantic cable tariff he declared.
Referring to woman's suffrage the president said that this issue would have to be decided by the various states and that he believed women to be as capable of wise use of the ballot as men. In the matter of recall of judges the president said he regarded the maintenance of a independent judiciary as a supreme issue and that the recall applied to judges would tend to deprive the public of judges of ability, character and a high sense of duty. The republican national headquarters declared today that this interview was authentic.

POLITICIANS GATHER AT MILTON JUNCTION TO WELCOME KAREL

Democrats From All Parts of the County Present at Fall Festival Today.

Karel of Milwaukee, candidate for governor on the democratic ticket, was the guest of Milton Junction and democrats of Rock county today and delivered an address at the home-coming celebration and fall festival which is being held here. Judge Karel arrived at Milton at ten o'clock this morning and was met there by a reception committee comprising Alexander Paul of Milton, Frank Morris of Milton Junction and Charles Cullen of Edgerton. A waiting automobile conveyed Judge Karel from the old town to the Junction where an informal reception was held and the candidate for governor greeted prominent democrats from all over the county. After luncheon at the Morton House, the judge met the members of the Rock county democratic committee and plans for the campaign in Rock county were discussed. About a thousand people were in Milton Junction today to hear Judge Karel speak and to attend the festival here. Among the number, including prominent democrats of Rock county and this section of the state were County Chairman A. Gardner Kavelage, P. J. Mount, F. Connors, George C. Schuyler, C. L. Miller, Samuel Grundy, J. P. Sweeney, F. C. Burpee, A. E. Shumway, E. H. Connell, J. E. Kennedy, J. F. Donahue, Dr. W. H. Judd, A. C. Thorpe, John Roberts and Edwin Bangs of Janesville; Charles Oliver, candidate for assemblyman in the second district of Rock county, and Cornelius Buckley of Beloit; J. A. Jensen, secretary of the county committee; E. A. Ellingson, Charles Cullen, C. A. Hoen, and Fred Jensen of Edgerton; Calvin Stewart, candidate for congressman from the first district; Clark Palmer of Lima, and O. F. Murwin of Fulton.
This morning a parade was held, in which a number of handsome floats were entered, the contestants striving hard to outdo one another in the beauty of their floats. The show of grains, fruits and other farm products is especially fine, and some handsome specimens of fancywork have been entered in competition in that exhibit. Judge Karel's address began at two o'clock. He was introduced by D. E. Thorpe and in his opening remarks paid a compliment to the people of Milton Junction for their successful festival. After endorsing the candidate for President and Vice-president on the Democratic ticket and the national Democratic platform, Judge Karel commenced an attack on the present income tax law, denouncing it as inequitable, unjust and inequitable. He pointed to the horde of parasitical office-holders necessary to carry out the terms of the law and said that it was driving industries out of the state, preventing capitalists from investing their money in Wisconsin, and in other ways sapping the life and wealth of the commonwealth. He urged a federal income tax law to nullify the state law.
The present state administration was arraigned for its prodigality in public expenditures and comparisons were made with the Illinois administration, to show a wanton waste in Wisconsin. He promised a political house-cleaning if he is elected governor. His final attack was made on the tuberculosis law which he said was unjust and acted on the farmers in much the same manner as the income tax law acts on the industries.

SOUNDS KEYNOTE OF STATE OPPOSITION TO PROGRESSIVISM

New York State Convention Goes on Record Today As Opposed to Roosevelt and His Doctrines.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Saratoga, N. Y., Sept. 25.—An attack on Colonel Roosevelt and the policies of the progressive party in nation and state marked the address of William Guthrie, temporary chairman before the republican state convention today. "We see clearly that the Progressive campaign is doomed to pitiable defeat," said Mr. Guthrie, and that only a malevolent desire to work injury to the republican party continues its campaigning.
The temporary chairman compared the present political situation with the condition which existed in 1880 and 1896 when he said, "the outlook for the success of the republican party looked discouraging."
The success of the republican party in those campaigns, he proceeded, would be repeated this fall. "Every republican vote cast for the democratic ticket will be wasted and will not only tend to magnify the future strength and nuisance value of the progressive party."

Mr. Guthrie gave three reasons why the republican national convention fulfilled its duty in regard to the nomination of Colonel Roosevelt. "In the first place he said the nomination of an ex-president of the United States for the third term would have been in violation of an unwritten rule established by Washington, Jefferson, Madison and Monroe and followed ever since.
"The common sense of faithful patriotic men must have convinced them that nothing could be more dangerous than to permit any individual, however popular or eloquent, to wield the power of the presidential office for more than two terms."

Colonel Roosevelt he declared had talked more than any man living of the discontent and class hatred existing among our people; he had assailed the judiciary and undermined the confidence of the people in the independent integrity of our judges; he had advocated revolutionary doctrines; he had shown that he despised constitutional restraint.
He had held up to the contempt of the world as a dishonest people politically and he was known to be a socialist at heart, although he had protested that he alone could save the country from socialism.

All appreciate his ability, his eloquence, his exaltation, his great personal magnetism, his fierce and tireless energy as well as his ambition, his impatience with any rule or law that curbed or checked his own will and his determination to rule or ruin the party. And all are beginning to perceive that his enthusiasm is rather for the arena and for power than for principles.

But his very popularity is similar in many respects to the popularity of Kearney the Sanial orator and Bryan the populist, likewise the weakness of Roosevelt as the candidate of the republican party. The qualities attracted and made him popular with unthinking people.
A third reason was why the majority in the Chicago convention should not have cast aside President Taft and have nominated Colonel Roosevelt. Had they done so, it would have been an act of political treachery, ingratitude and dishonor. President Taft claimed and deserved the renomination for great and faithful service to the republican party.

Mr. Guthrie defined the great issues of the national campaign as follows: First, the constitutional right and power of Congress to protect and to preserve our present industrial system. Second, the threat to overthrow the republican system of government in state and nation by the introduction of the initiative and recall and third the assault upon the administration of justice of the American courts.

Almost the only reference Mr. Guthrie made to the democratic presidential was in his discussion of the tariff. As pointed out by representatives in Congress although we may now be willing to face free competition with European, we cannot be blind to the menace and dangers of free competition with Asiatics. Shall we now open the flood gates, shall we now elect as president the historian, who but a few years ago in the quiet and impartial atmosphere of his study declared that these same Chinese are far more to be desired than most of the coarse crew that comes crowding in at our Eastern ports.

Many are now telling the people that the tariff is solely responsible for high cost of living and for the present so-called unrest and discontent. This is not true. Such a phenomena is world wide and exists abroad as much if not more than in this country. Instead of the initiative, the referendum and the recall, Mr. Guthrie said, "what the country needs is men of higher character and greater competency in our legislature and congress."

PLANS FOR DECKING BRIDGE ARE READY

Were Submitted by City Engineer C. V. Kerch to Council Yesterday—May Start Work Soon.

Plans for the construction of a new deck for the Milwaukee street bridge were submitted to the Council at its meeting yesterday afternoon by City Engineer C. V. Kerch. Four inch creosoted wood block are to be used for paving the roadway. They will be laid upon two inch creosoted plank, and between them will be placed a layer of three ply waterproofing felt. The sidewalks will be constructed of two inch creosoted plank laid upon matched flooring, a layer of waterproof felt separating the two. This is to prevent water seeping through and causing the supporting stringers to rot. Some of the piles will be given slight repairs.

City Engineer Kerch is corresponding with firms who are in a position to supply the kind of materials needed for the purpose of learning what their prices are. The Council has not yet acted on the plans but will probably give them prompt attention and start work at the earliest date possible. They aim to have all the materials needed on hand before undertaking the improvement as they desire to interrupt the traffic as little as possible. It is estimated that the proposed new deck will be good for at least twelve years service.

CHANGES IN FIRE STATION PROVIDE MUCH NEEDED ROOM

Apparatus Rearranged So As To Enable Quicker Response to Alarms—Engine Is Moved

Much needed room has been provided at the west side fire station through moving the horse stalls into the rear addition and substituting a large iron beam for the partition that formerly supported the weight of the rear end of the second story. The positions of the various pieces of fire apparatus have been changed so as to enable quicker "get-aways." The engine has been moved to the north wall and in front of it stands the reserve hose wagon. The chief's auto is next to the south wall and between the engine and auto, in the center of the floor, have been placed the hose wagon and aerial ladder truck. In this position the pole can be left on the truck, eliminating any loss of time through transferring it. The new arrangement leaves plenty of room for the horses to run from the stalls into their places, much more than they had before.

Dr. James Mills was called and reduced the fracture, and made her as comfortable as possible.

Workmen demolishing the old building which has been used as a garage by the Janesville Auto Company uncovered a large iron safe in the north east corner concealed behind a heavy brick wall. The building was erected by the firm of McKee Brothers in the early "sixties" and is said to have been used for the storage of merchandise so that they could take advantage of the rise in prices which followed the opening of the Civil War.

Those Peruna Testimonials How Are They Obtained?

S. B. HARTMAN, M.D.

For a great many years I have been gathering statistics as to the effects of Peruna when taken for catarrhal discharges. I have on hand thousands of unsolicited testimonials from people in all stations of life who claim that after many years' failure to rid themselves of chronic catarrh by various forms of treatment they have found complete relief by the use of Peruna. These testimonials have come to me unrequested, unsolicited, unrewarded in any way, directly or indirectly. They have simply been gleaned from my private correspondence with patients that have been more or less under my treatment or taking my remedies.

No remedy, official or unofficial, has a greater accredited basis for the claims we make for it than Peruna as a remedy for catarrh.

I have never been opposed at any time to the regulations offered by the Pure Food and Drugs Act. I am not now opposed to its provisions, but I am opposed to the proposed amendments to give to a partisan board of physicians the unqualified authority to decide as to all therapeutic claims which may be made for a proprietary medicine. It is manifestly unjust to refer such questions to a body of men who are already convinced of the worthlessness of proprietary medicines. To give such a body of men the unlimited authority to decide whether our claims for Peruna are valid or not is a manifest violation of my constitutional rights.

My claims are based both on creditable theoretical grounds and upon irrefutable statistics. But I am quite willing to have our claims as to the composition of Peruna properly and thoroughly investigated, and if found to be false a proper penalty should be fixed. Or if I am making any statements concerning disease, as to the nature, symptoms or danger of any disease, if I am making any such statements as to unnecessarily frighten the people by false assumptions, I am willing to submit to any unbiased tribunal or investigation.

Mrs. Alice Bogle, 803 Clinton St., Circleville, Ohio, writes: "I want to inform you what Peruna has done for me. I have been afflicted with catarrh for several years. I have tried different medicines and none seemed to do me any good until I used Peruna. I have taken six bottles and can praise it very highly for the good it has done me. I also find it of great benefit to my children."

Peruna is for sale at all drug stores.

Special Notice.—Many persons are making inquiries for the old-time Peruna. To such would say, this formula is now put out under the name of KATARNO, manufactured by KATARNO COMPANY, Columbus, Ohio. Write them and they will be pleased to send you a free booklet.

MAKE MORE COMPLETE PLANS FOR BANQUET

Seniors Appoint More Committees to Make Freshman Banquet a Success.

The banquet committee of the senior class, who are to have complete charge of entertaining the freshmen at their annual reception, held a meeting to present what arguments the members might have in entertaining the youngsters of the school. The plan which seems to be a good one, is being kept on the quiet. Several new committees were appointed to help in making this banquet a success, and they were as follows:

Decoration committee: Roy Cannon, Lucille Hyde, Evelyn Kavelage, Stanley Judd, Ray Elder, Raymond Galt, Elizabeth Adams, Melvin Wilkins, William O'Connor, Joseph Ryan, Jessie Pruner and Charles Noyes.

Supper committee: Vesta Bradley, Evelyn Kavelage, and Lucille Hyde. No Annual.

The juniors have decided not to have an annual this year, and will endeavor to publish a monthly record of what is going on in the school. This will not be as expensive as the annual, and it is thought more interest will prevail among the students. Although no permission has been asked, as yet from Prof. Buell, it is hoped that the juniors will, once more have the chance to publish a monthly, as was done a few years ago. The monthly publication will contain all the incidents which might happen the month previous to the time the book would go to press.

New Weekly.

Yesterday at the high school, a surprise was given to the students when a high school weekly was published and circulated among the members of the school. This small magazine contains many humorous ditties and sayings which prevail among the students and faculty. Continued stories are among the contents, and prizes are offered for the students solving the puzzles which appear in complicated form. The name of this weekly is the "Bughouse." The first issue contained fourteen pages, and an issue of 200 was required to fill the demand of the earnest students who waited to read the high school notes. Advertisements appear in this book, and the merchants of this city are the ones who are the advertisers. The students on the board are: William Jerome Ruger, editor-in-chief; Harry Nichols, assistant editor; George Kavelage, manager.

The Societies.

The chief officers of the four literary societies of the high school met with some of the members of the Board of Education last night at the close of school to discuss among themselves the resolution which Mr. Grant brought up. This resolution was mentioned some time ago and is a rule whereby any student wishing to enter a society could put his name up and that the critics could mention names for nomination also.

It was found that the societies were acting in this way at present and had always done so. The complaints made were of the opinion that many students were desirous of entering the societies, but were rejected. Very few societies have been made and principally through the standing of the student. It has been customary to have one's standing high enough, the average being 75 and 85, before any student was voted on.

If the society thought this particular student would make a good member and willing to work, he was nominated and elected into the society.

As it is known, fraternities are not allowed in high schools, and these societies have forever tried to refrain from making them in any way a secrecy. This is the reason why the societies have been so successful in the last few years.

The membership of these literary clubs are limited, and as they have almost full memberships, it is being tried to organize new societies. At present the societies have waiting lists of pledged members, which would fill their membership, if elected into their respective society.

These lists were made out before any resolution was proposed. The meeting adjourned at 5:15, and it is thought only one amendment will be made, and that of having the critic name any student which he thought would aid the society if he were a member. A blackball restriction, which is a one-fifth vote against any student, would keep him from becoming a member. This was thought to have not been used, but it has been in the different constitutions since the establishing of the societies.

The board will hold a meeting the early part of October, and they will discuss the changes.

Football Practice.

Football practice was again held last night, and they ran signals for a while without the services of the coach, who was detained at the high school. Practically the same line-up was used. Stewart running the quarterback position with accuracy. Falter seems to be the likely candidate for punting, his boots being long and fast. No game will be played this Saturday, as no team can be obtained. It is a good thing that the locals did not arrange a game with Fort Atkinson as it is understood that they defeated the strong Whitewater Normal 17 to 6 last Saturday. Possibly a game will be played later in the season, as the locals are anxious to meet their old and bitter rivals.

BAR POLITICS WHEN AT THE CONVENTION

Roosevelt At Little Rock Talks On "Deep Water Ways And Ignores Politics."

Little Rock, Ark., Sept. 25.—Forms of politics were temporarily laid aside by Theodore Roosevelt today when he spoke here before the Gulf Deep Waterways Association. There was no hint of partisan politics in Little Rock's reception to Col. Roosevelt. Long before the colonel reached the auditorium where he was to talk it was crowded and the former president was cheered for several minutes when he appeared upon the platform. His address was devoted in the main to the subject of deep waterways, although he referred to some of the broader issues of his campaign.

"I feel as if I had been in a crusade," said Col. Roosevelt today. "Coming into the old south with his trip through the west at an end he said he felt that he had been well repaid for his western campaign. At the bottom Col. Roosevelt continued the progressive movement was a religious one. He said that one of the things which had impressed him most was the singing of 'Onward Christian Soldiers' at meetings which he had addressed. 'It is pretty hard to improve on the Bible,' he said. 'All we are trying to do in this twentieth century is to apply the old injunction to do unto others as you would have them do unto you.'"

When Joe Wood faces McGraw's clasp in New York for the first game in the world's series he will be accompanied by the most attractive little mascot who ever "mascotted" for a well known athlete. The mascot happens to be Joe's little sister, Mary, age six, who, despite the wide difference in years, is Wood's greatest pal.

Young Sammy Smith, the spectacular pugilist, who two years ago had a lot of the eastern lightweights guessing, has grown into a middleweight and will appear in the ring again within a few days. Smith has weak eyes and takes his glasses into the ring with him. He removes them, of course, when the first gong sounds.

Jack Harrison, Lonsdale 158-pound champ of Great Britain, has been offered $8,000 to fight Carpenter in Paris.

Word comes from Detroit that the Tigers have traded infielder Derrick to the New York Americans for Catcher McKee and have purchased Catcher Rondeau from Washington, Rondeau, it is understood, cost a round $4,000.

"Press agenting" is one of the reasons given by Hugh S. Fullerton, the well known sport writer, for the dismal failure of some of the big league teams this season. "The hopes of the fans have been raised far beyond reason by the glowing stories of how good certain players are," says Fullerton, in speaking of the "publicity agent." "Some players have been rendered nervous and useless, others have 'swelled' and gained such inflated ideas of their own importance that they were beyond teaching and beyond control of managers before they learned enough to play major league ball."

Fullerton says the teams that have suffered most from "press agenting" are the Chicago White Sox and the Cincinnati Reds.

Gaucha, a fleet-footed ostrich, will run a mile with St. Patrick, a St. Louis pacing horse, at the St. Louis fair September 28, if present plans carry. Gaucha can burn up the track on the mile run, and is credited with a record of 2 minutes 5 seconds.

Johnny Coulon, bantamweight champion, is preparing for his battle with Kid Williams of Baltimore on October 18. "This Williams is a wonder and I anticipate a hard battle with him," recently declared Coulon. "He knocks out almost everybody he tackles, it seems but he'll find the championship a different proposition." Johnny says he's going to fight off-ender this season than he ever did before and that he hopes to have all the ring contenders obliterated by spring-time.

"Johnny Kilbane measures well up to the mark set by title holders of the past," recently declared James J. Corbett in an article about featherweights. "He is as clever as Abe Attell ever was or I am no judge. In fact, I think him a better boxer, and a hard hitter when he has occasion to put the punch over. Ask Joe Rivers about that."

"Johnny may not have the murderous wallop that made Terry McGovern famous, although in every other way he outclasses men of Terry's type. He is a skillful, brainy boxer and a real champion of his class or I am greatly wrong in my estimate of the lad. Like Packey McFarland, Kilbane is satisfied to demonstrate superiority by outpointing opponents, and barring accident will probably defend the title successfully for a longer time than a majority of his predecessors."

game at Cleveland that made them champions. But on Sept. 17, 1912, history failed in the come-back stunt, as the Red Sox, again fighting for the pennant, lost a double-header at Cleveland.

Eddie Collins, of the Athletics, nearly equalled the basestealing record when he pilfered six sacks in Detroit recently. George Gore, the old Chicago outfielder, stole seven bases in a game in 1881, and Billy Hamilton made the same record when he was with the Phillies in 1894.

PRIZE-WINNERS ARE NAMED AT MEETING

Commercial League Managers Award Parker Team the Silver Cup and Various Prizes to Individuals.

At a meeting of the managers of the Commercial league teams at the Y. M. C. A. building last evening prizes were awarded to the various teams and individual players. A special committee to go over the records and determine the prize-winners was appointed by President Bright and was composed of Manager Little of the Parkers, Manager Fraunfelder of the Northwestern and Manager Briggs of the Gazette.

After a study of the official scores the committee announced the prize-winners as follows:

To the Parker Pen team, who lead the league at the end of the season with a percentage of .889, the silver loving cup donated by George S. Parker was given, and the Y. M. C. A. team, second in the race, receive the gift of the H. L. McNamara Hardware company. The Lewis team, the league tail-enders, were awarded the box of cigars given by Miller and Schubert.

The prizes for the individual players were awarded as follows:

To Andrew Connell, Hanson Furniture company pitcher, sweater, donated by Amos Rehberg company. Connell secured an average of seven and two-tenths strike-outs in ten games.

To Francis Green, Y. M. C. A. pitcher, bat, donated by J. L. Ford & Son, clothing. Greene allowed but an average of three hits in seven games.

To John Brown, Y. M. C. A. catcher, pair of shoes, donated by the Golden Eagle for the batter having the highest average of hits per game. His average was one and eight-tenths hits in ten games.

The prize of a ball bat, given by W. J. Skelly for the player getting the most home runs, went to Frank Klusky of the parkers. Klusky secured but one big hit but as there were twelve other players who secured home runs the committee placed the names of each in a hat and drew. The rubber-grinders name was the last ballot picked and to him was awarded the prize bat.

WITH THE BOXERS.

In his recent bout with Young Saylor, Jack Britton, the Chicago lightweight, showed Boston fans what speed really is.

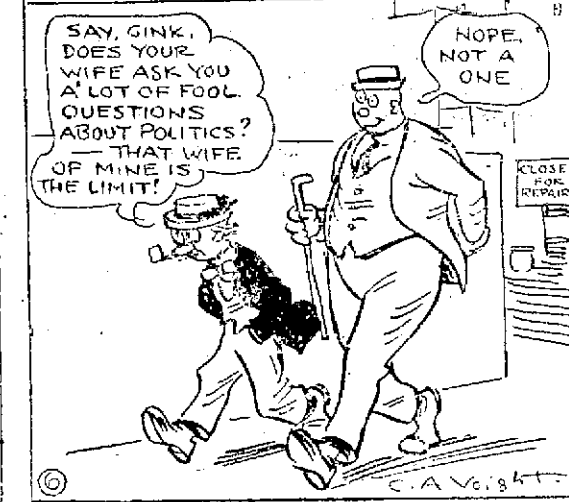

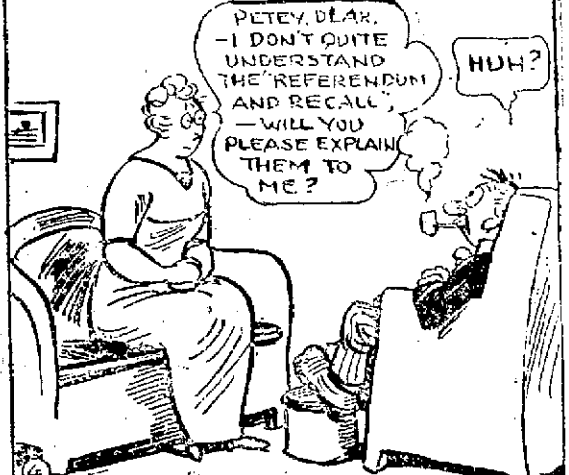

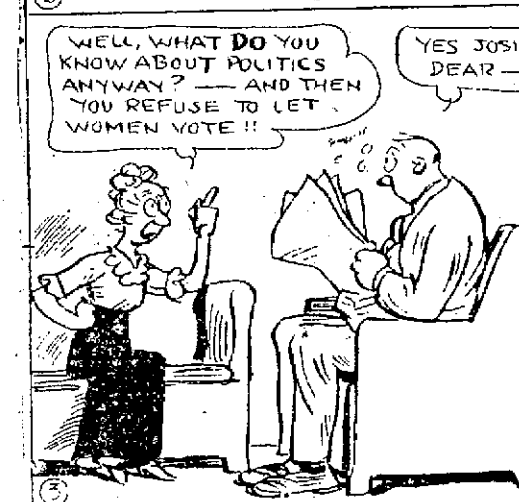

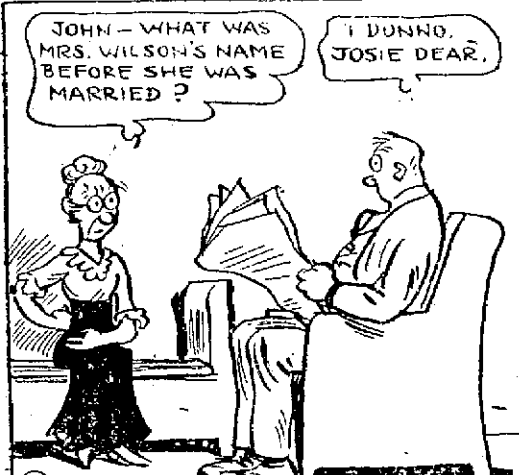

Manager Gil Boag says that his lightweight, "One Round" Hogan was downed in recent bout with Frankie Burns in San Francisco.

Jeff Clarke, the fighting ghost, who bested Joe Jeannette in a six-round bout, is after matches with the boxers in the middleweight class.

BAD STORM PERIOD DURING NEXT MONTH

Foster Predicts Series of Destructive Disturbances for Week Centering on Oct. 11.

(Copyrighted 1912 by W. T. Foster.)

Last bulletin gave forecasts of disturbances to cross continent Oct. 4 to 8, warm wave 3 to 7, cool wave 6 to 10. Temperatures of this part of Oct. will average lower than usual but this disturbance will cause warmer weather than prevailed during the passing of the previous disturbances. As the storm wave nears eastern sections the storm forces will increase in energy and severe storms are probable on the Atlantic coast near Oct. 8.

Next disturbances will reach Pacific coast about Oct. 7, cross Pacific slope by close of Oct. 10 to 13 east to 13, eastern sections 12. Warm wave will cross Pacific slope about Oct. 7, great central valleys 9, eastern sections 11. Cool wave will cross Pacific slope about Oct. 10, great central valleys 12, eastern sections 14.

This will be one of the most notable storm periods of the fall months, not only on this continent but in many places all around the earth. A tropical hurricane is expected to organize during the four days of Oct. 10 to 13 east of the Caribbean Sea. We cannot yet forecast the movements of these hurricanes but their usual path lies through the Caribbean Sea and the Gulf of Mexico. They move slowly and this storm may be in those southern seas as much as ten days and then in the Atlantic coast waters five days. These great storms often continue fifteen days.

Near Oct. 15 a cold wave is expected in the middle northwest and will carry frosts far southward, probably killing top growth of cotton along the Gulf coasts. Some danger of frosts in Florida.

We advise all and everyone to be on guard as to destructive storms during the week centering on Oct. 11. Electric storms, also are expected during that week. Better not travel at that time. Of course these dangerous storms will reach comparatively a very few places. We publish forecasts of the expected snapshots about that time. Watch for the sun spots Oct. 13 to 20.

The cool wave of Oct. 10 to 14 will be a cold wave but will probably not go so far south as the one to follow. While Oct. is expected to be a very cold month, the week of above named disturbances will be one of the warmest of the month. The coldest weather of October is expected in meridian 90 near 18, a day or two earlier west of that and as much later east as it.

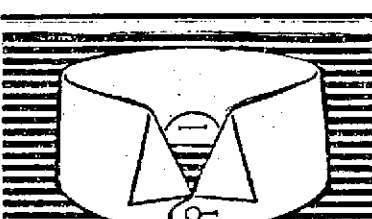

Usually Dec. is much colder than Oct. but a reversal is expected and Oct. will be colder than Dec. Feeding live stock will require more than usual of the new crops in Oct. because of cold weather and no old feed but Dec. will probably not require much feed. We are still advising farmers not to sell their new crops at present prices. The crops on this continent are not as large as interested parties have tried to make believe and the demand from foreign countries will be larger than indicated. Our correspondents are surely as reliable as those who have every facility to make believe that the crop products are the greatest ever produced. This is a bad time to put new crops onto the market. We have absolutely no interests in the markets and we give the same advice to all, privately and publicly.

CALIFORNIA REPUBLICANS HAVE TILT OVER ELECTORS

Sacramento, Cal., Sept. 25.—A lively session of the republican state convention was in progress here today. Last night the committee on resolutions, by a vote of 11 to 2, defeated the resolution endorsing Taft's administration and prevented the convention from nominating Taft electors. This action prevented the resolution being presented to the convention and compelled the Taft supporters to hinge their fight on the platform and not on the nomination of presidential electors.

SEVENTY THOUSAND VOTE IN TUESDAY'S PRIMARY.

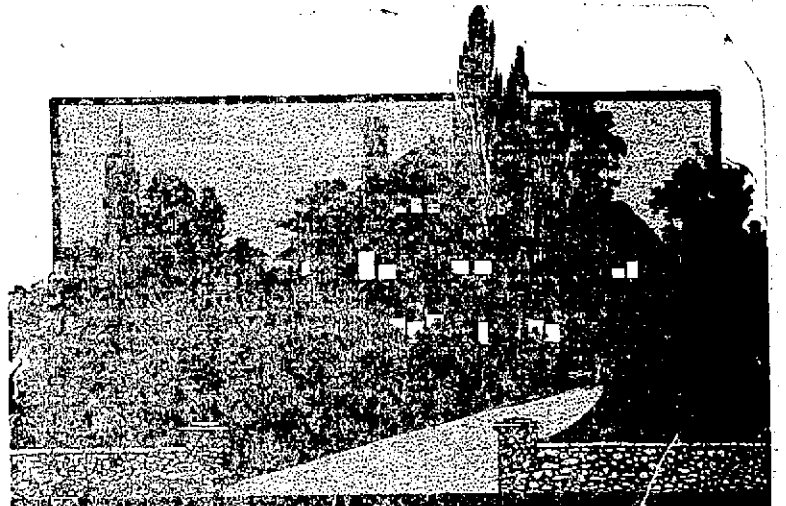

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Newark, N. J., Sept. 25.—That total democratic vote cast at the New Jersey primaries yesterday was estimated today at about 70,000. Complete returns were slow in being tabulated, but the plurality for Hughes, the Wilson candidate for United States senator was estimated as running anywhere between 20,000 and 30,000.

THE MEN WHO SUCCEED

as heads of large enterprises are men of great energy. Success, today, demands health. To all is to fail. It's utter folly for a man to endure a weak, run-down, half alive condition when Electric Bitters will put him right on his feet in short order. "Four bottles did me more real good than any other medicine I ever took," writes Chas. B. Allen, Sylvania, Ga. "After years of suffering with rheumatism, liver trouble, stomach disorders, and deranged kidneys, I am again, thanks to Electric Bitters, sound and well." Try them. Only 50 cents at Peoples' Drug Co.

Electric Light Makes Any Home More Cheerful

As you walk down any residence street at night, notice how easy it is to distinguish the homes lighted by electricity. There is a certain air of comfort and good cheer about them that other houses lack. And they really are more comfortable and more cheerful. Electric Light is the brightest, cleanest, safest, most convenient illuminant, as well as the most economical. The cost of Electric Light is now extremely low—within the reach of everyone.

Equip Your Home With This Modern Illuminant

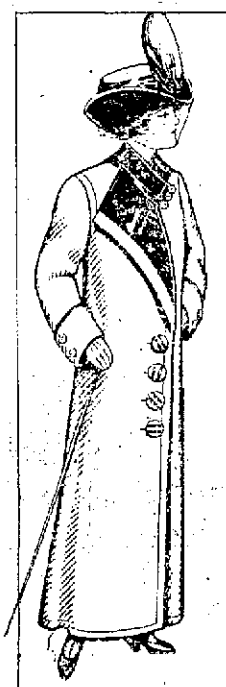

Electric Light is, everything considered, the cheapest illuminant for every home. If your home is not already equipped for Electric Light, now is the most opportune time to have the wiring done. Let us prepare an estimate of the cost for you.

THE DONKEY AND THE MOOSE.

There is sunshine o'er the nation,
there is joy in ev'ry heart,
For the crops are just tremendous and in every busy mart.
There's a hustle and a bustle—men
are busy every day.
Happy in their constant labor, steady
work and steady pay.
Railroad trains are running heavy;
loaded down with tons of freight;
Factories are humming gayly, starting early, quitting late.

It's a great and glorious country, with prosperity endowed,
While the Donkey keeps on braying
and the Bull Moose bellows loud.

'Twas not always thus so pleasant;
There were years of dismal gloom
When the workmen were idle, factories were like a tomb.

Hungry men tramped dusty highways,
vainly seeking daily bread;
Families were near starvation; business languished, almost dead.
Farmers everywhere despondent; corn
and wheat sold for a song;
Hogs were hardly worth the raising;
everything went sadly wrong.
Those sad days will be returning, every heart with care be bowed,
If the Donkey keeps on braying
and the Bull Moose bellows loud.

Let us reason well together! Common sense should have full sway!
Why should we be blind and foolish, driving happiness away?
Why should we the farm encumber
with a mortgage, as of old,
When we know that if we vote right,
crops are worth their weight in gold?

When the Ship of State is sailing safely on its chartered way, Why invite disastrous shipwreck on the next election day?
So we'll vote for Taft and Sherman—
just the same old happy crowd—
While the Donkey keeps on braying
and the Bull Moose bellows loud!

This campaign jingle, sent out by the press bureau of the republican national committee, contains food for thought, and as the campaign progresses many voters are coming to realize that the great demand for a change of national administration, is simply a snare and delusion.

The democratic party offers nothing
by way of argument for support, and its record of incompetency is a matter of history with which every intelligent voter is familiar. It is a party of kickers, and the donkey is a significant symbol.

The new party stands for nothing and would not be recognized except for the man who leads it, and who is so consumed with personal ambition that he travels over the country, pawing up the earth and bellowing like the king of the Canadian forest, for which he is named.

The republican party is making history every day, and prosperity marks the headline on every page. Is there anything to be gained in a change of administration?

POLITICS AND BUSINESS.

While the outlook for business is good, yet the fact remains that too much politics has cursed the country, and as a result the people, as well as the industries, are loaded with tax burdens, and money that should be employed in the channels of trade is demanded to meet the extravagances of reform administration.

Public money comes so easy that the public crib is always inviting, and recklessness of expenditure is the natural result. This is true of the nation, and doubly true of the state, which calls for a million dollars a month to meet its pay roll.

Extravagance seems to be the watchword, both in state and national life, and between taxation and regulation the average taxpayer is kept guessing. President Taft is alive to the situation, so far as the national treasury is concerned, and is using his influence to compel congress to pass a law requiring all departments to furnish a budget before asking for appropriations.

There is no hope for the people of Wisconsin except in a change of state administration. The most important issue, in the state campaign, is the issue of reckless extravagance which curses the state, and will continue to curse so long as radical reformers are in the saddle. They have preached the doctrine of independence, urging every man to act for himself, and if a dose of their own medicine is administered, there can be no cause for complaint.

In speaking of the business and political situation in general, the Wall Street Journal says:

"Political observers in the past week professed to trace some waning
in the Roosevelt boom, and Governor Wilson's return from the West was accompanied by cheerful predictions.
News from the regular republican party seems to be reduced to a minimum, and in any case the business of the country is regarding the possibilities of politics with equanimity.

"It is a condition, however, which contains the seeds of trouble, and it is impossible to ignore it altogether.
The temper and patience of our people have been fortified by bounteous crops, and a volume of general business excellent in itself, and tending to grow larger to the extent it is possible to finance it.

"It is not surprising, therefore, to find dear money a matter of more serious consideration, for the present, than cheap politics; but all the same
there are some aspects of the case which should be kept firmly before the public mind. It is to the politicians, for instance, that we owe a volume of federal, state, and municipal taxation for purposes mainly of administrative character, which amounts to something not far short of $40 per capita, on trustworthy estimates. This fact has a most serious bearing on the ultimate prosperity of the country, and is an excellent reason why capital for industrial development should be scarce.

"Administrative extravagance has consumed a large floating capital which might have been turned to productive uses, and one of the most encouraging developments of the week was the firm and statesmanlike pronouncement of President Taft on the presentation of a budget to congress, calculated to show us where we stand,
and where reckless expenditure of the pork barrel and pension variety is likely to lead us."

EMOTIONALISM IN POLITICS.

The problem of carrying a presidential election is mainly how by tera-tion to excite the voters to believe in some real or artificial peril to the country, says the October "Century."
The bellows of emotion is used to kindle the untouched coal of feeling, first to a red-hot state and then to a devouring flame. Men who at the beginning of a campaign have presented an excellent imitation of sober-minded citizens actually contemplating questions of government become by November, through a contagion of catchwords as blind and mad in their partisanism as young lovers in their love.

There are two considerations which would seem to point to a diminution during the present year in the susceptibility of the electorate to these hectic influences. One is the fatig-uing excitement of the presidential primaries, which is likely to react in intelligent people to a sere state of mind. Human nature simply cannot keep up the racket. The second consideration is to be found in the abundant prospect of "bumper" crops.

On the other hand, two new elements must be taken into account, as tending, in certain quarters, to an increase of emotion. For the first time in a presidential election the votes of women in six states are likely to have a large total effect, and those will add an influence from the sex which, on the whole, is moved more by feeling than by reason, and which, moreover,
is an influence likely to be played upon easily by politicians. Again, the campaign has taken on an entirely novel phase in what may be called the political capitalization of benevolent work, which is sure to emotionalize politics to a very great extent.

Nobody seems to be considering the social peril involved in partisan charities. Apparently, there never was a campaign when it was more desirable to put on one's thinking-cap and to keep it on.

Playing to the galleries is not a new feature, in the political game, but the Bull Moose party has exceeded the limit, and is already in the throes of reaction. People enjoy a brass band at long range but when the music is confined to a hall it soon becomes distressing.

The new party started out to sweep the country by noisy appeals, claiming to be inspired by a great principle. It posed as the friend of labor and of the woman suffrage movement.
To work on the emotions of the masses was its principle stock in trade, but sentiment, while commendable, is not a plant of sturdy growth, and the sober second thought of the people is already causing it to wilt.

A contractor up at Oshkosh, employed on state work, permitted some of his men to work ten hours to protect the building from rain. The law-breaker was reported to the governor, and an order was issued to obey to the letter the eight hour day. That's the sort of reform that Roosevelt established, and still advocates. It lacks the first elements of common sense, and is so regarded, not only by employers, but by the great rank and file of labor outside of union dictation.

The man who has controlled the destinies of Wisconsin, for the past few years, and is still in the saddle, don't care a whoop whether the taxes are three million dollars, or four times that amount. Small affairs of business are of no consequence, as compared to the running of a political machine which is without a rival. It is worth something to be able to go out and elect dead men to office, by a wave of the hand, as well as to secure funds when needed by an order to "Go out and get the mon'."

What pugilistic classification?

Heart to Heart Talks.

By EDWIN A. NYE.

HOMESICKNESS.

Out in the Philippines the order to military bands, it is said, is to play
"Home, Sweet Home," very sparingly.
The reason?

The old tune is apt to induce hom-esickness in the soldiers, and homesickness leads to desertion.

General Leonard Wood, chief of staff in the army, asserts that the greater proportion of desertions in our military forces is caused by homesickness.
It is the same in other armies.

In Canada some years ago the authorities found it necessary, for the same reason, to prohibit the playing of "Lochaber No More" by the bagpipers in regiments of troops composed largely of Scotchmen.

Also—
A similar prohibition was made, for a like reason, by French officers against the playing of "Rans des Vaches" in regiments in which Swiss troops were serving.

And—
Human nature being the same everywhere, it is likely that much playing of "Die Wacht am Rhine" would tend toward desertions from the German army in Africa.

The home tunes touch a tender spot.
The doctors say homesickness is a real disorder. They call it "nostalgia"
and say it often takes the form of acute
melancholia and is ruinous to health
and frequently fatal.
Persons literally die and go insane
from the heart wrenchings.

The poor soldier, far from familiar scenes and home surroundings, among
a strange people, doing onerous duty,
bears the dear, familiar music, and
the longing for the homeland tugs at his heart. The longing induces brooding, which ends in acute melancholia.
The lure of home makes him half insane, and he forgets his duty and his oath.

The call of memory is enhanced by
time and distance.
Who can resist the tender plea?
Those who lead men into strange
lands do well to be careful they do not awaken in the hearts of their followers
fond recollections of native land and
home and friends.

Because—
The tie that once has bound a boy to his home will never come untied.

this safe medicine. Throat and lung

The home tunes touch a tender spot.
The doctors say homesickness is a real disorder. They call it "nostalgia"
and say it often takes the form of acute
melancholia and is ruinous to health
and frequently fatal.
Persons literally die and go insane
from the heart wrenchings.

The poor soldier, far from familiar
scenes and home surroundings, among
a strange people, doing onerous duty,
bears the dear, familiar music, and
the longing for the homeland tugs at
his heart. The longing induces brooding, which ends in acute melancholia.
The lure of home makes him half insane, and he forgets his duty and his
oath.

The call of memory is enhanced by
time and distance.
Who can resist the tender plea?
Those who lead men into strange
lands do well to be careful they do not
awaken in the hearts of their followers
fond recollections of native land and
home and friends.

Because—
The tie that once has bound a boy to his home will never come untied.

AMOUNT SUBSCRIBED TOTALS NEAR EIGHT HUNDRED DOLLARS

Younger Members of Young Men's Christian Association Have Pledged Sums For Remodeling Work and Support of Association.

Working among the younger members of the Young Men's Christian Association, Secretary J. C. Kline had this morning secured nearly eight hundred dollars in subscriptions toward defraying the expenses to be incurred by the association for remodeling the building. The secretary has been working the past two days among the younger members of the association, and the subscriptions secured are mostly in amounts of ten dollars each and some for twenty-five dollars each. In addition to the secretary, subscription lists have been given to five young men to circulate among their friends who are members of the association, and it is possible that later a committee or committees will be organized to take up the work. What is being done now is only the preliminary work among the young men of the Y, the subscriptions sought are in amounts of $10, $25, $50 and $100. Of these amounts, ten dollars will include the cost of a year's membership in the association, including all privileges. Subscription lists will also be circulated among the older members of the organization, as it is desired to get the amount needed for the improvements as soon as possible, so that the work of remodeling can commence. However, the work cannot be started until all the money necessary has been pledged. The proposed work includes a number of changes in the present management of the building. The upstairs part now used as an auditorium will be made over into a gymnasium, with running track and other equipment for a model gym. The ground floor will be arranged so as to provide for an auditorium, the open space above the present gymnasium being covered over and floors laid. Folding doors will make it possible to divide the auditorium into two or three separate rooms, or give access to the whole space necessary. Bowling alleys, a swimming pool, and other devices for the entertainment of the members will be installed in the basement. The work to be done has been so arranged that the regular activities at the association can be continued without interruption. In addition the dormitories will be added to, an addition being built at the rear of the present dormitory with the walls for the dormitory addition in, all of the work can be carried on within doors.

GET NO MORE CLUES TO THIEF OR HORSE

Missing Rig Traced Only As Far As Johnston—Wife of Thief Lives in Whitewater.

Efforts made to locate the horse and carriage stolen from the Ryan livery Monday afternoon have thus far proved unavailing. Sheriff E. H. Ransom made a trip to Whitewater in an automobile this morning and made frequent inquiries along the road, but found no one that had seen the missing rig except the young woman who teaches school at Johnston Center. She had seen it at five o'clock that afternoon.

Sheriff Ransom found and interviewed the wife of the horse thief at Whitewater. She said that her husband, Mr. Kelly, had not been living with her for two years, though she had heard from him since. She gave no very flattering account of her husband's character. Mrs. Kelly owns property at 610 South Jackson street in this city, left to her by her first husband. Until her marriage to Kelly she bore the name of Johanna Frank. Kelly is reported to have been in the vicinity of Janesville all summer. Sheriff Ransom returned from Whitewater at noon and left soon afterward for Elkhorn and Delavan, hoping to find some trace of him in that direction.

Milwaukee Horse Stolen: The Janesville police received a telephone message this morning stating that a horse had been stolen there yesterday and requesting that they keep watch for it. The horse is a dark bay mare, six years old and 950 pounds in weight. It stands fifteen hands high, has a narrow white stripe on its face and its two hind feet and left front foot are white. The horse has a thick neck, long, heavy tail, and plump body. When stolen it had on a bridle and Mexican saddle.

Fresh crabapples are the feature of today's fruit market. These are the first to be found on the local market this season and they are very fine and abundant. They are retailing for 8 cents a pound. There are also some very fine fresh peaches on the market today and they took on a slight decrease in price this morning. They now sell for 10 cents a dozen. The Michigan peaches which came on the market some time ago are still very good, but they are not as plentiful as they were as there has been a very heavy demand for them. The grapes of the Tokay variety are just about all gone and the next few days will see the last of them. They are now selling for 12 cents a pound. Owing to the cold weather that we have been having there was not a very great demand for lemons this season, but they are very good and are bringing 40 cents a dozen. Of the vegetables which are on the market the pumpkins are the favorites. They sell for 10 cents each.

What Is Your Speed Limit?

Now that nearly everybody is going at a lively pace on the public highway, we realize that for safety, there must be a speed limit. And we are putting up signs everywhere regulating the pace.

But nearly everybody is going at a gallop in every day life that is just as unsafe to health and general welfare, yet no speed regulations are posted.

Wouldn't it be well to put up some speed limits in the conduct of our every day affairs?

Nearly all of us could do it with profit. Now and then some of us are compelled to go at a gait that is only limited by our endurance. This may be likened to the auto ambulance at full speed to save life. Everybody gives it the road. And some of us because of duties or responsibilities must strike this pace and hold it as long as human endurance permits.

But these are the exceptions. The most of us strike the pace at which we are going for no good reason that we could give. Speed is in the air. And we "hit it up" with the rest.

In social life, in home life and in business life, we are all overdoing. There are more things to be done than there are minutes to do them in. As a consequence we are all hurried and at tension. We are constantly rushing. Yet there are always things waiting to be done.

So it would be a good thing to put up some speed regulations, to say that we will work so many hours a day, that we will rest so many, that we will go in for amusement for so many, whether this take the form of reading, walking or purely frivolous pleasure.

And in order to obey these regulations, we need to make it possible to slow down. Simply to leave undone things we believe ought to be done will do us little good. There will be internal stress and strain, even if we do not express it in actual physical hurry. And so in order to actually slow down, we need to do some cutting out.

In order to do this, we will find it helpful to look over our week's program, to see a stretch of time as a whole. Sometimes merely to look at the day's work is not sufficient; but to take the week that stretches before us, and apportion our time, as we apportion our housekeeping allowance, is helpful. And if we find the time doesn't stretch, we should not try to increase the pace. Rather we should see if we can't cut something out. If we will balance many of the things that are to be done with health, or with the opportunity to read and meditate and grow strong spiritually as well as mentally, we will quickly see how non-essential they are. And when we thus see them in their true light, let us throw them aside.

We will probably find that there is much conventional calling that means nothing, that there are many little trifles of dress that consume time and strength, but which have no real value, that there are certain useless formalities in our housekeeping that can be cast aside. All these will help let down the pace without losing anything worth while.

And we will find by thus putting up some speed limits for ourselves that we will enjoy the journey of life more, that we will get a chance to see the scenery, and that we will run no risk of some terrible accident that perhaps may damage the physical machinery beyond repair.

So why not make those speed regulations for ourselves at the beginning of the new season now right at hand?

The Evening Chit-Chat

BY RUTH CAMERON

TREATING ONE'S RELATIVES LIKE FRIENDS.

A LITTLE girl, perhaps eight or nine years old, came skipping out on the veranda of the hotel where I was staying this summer, and exchanged greetings with a man who stood looking out across the mountains.

"Good morning," said the little girl, "how do you do this morning?" "Why good morning," said the man, turning towards her with evident pleasure. "I'm fine as silk, thank you. I'm trying to make up my mind whether it's going to rain or clear off. What do you think?"

The youngster took a look at the clouds and with youthful optimism promptly decided that it was going to clear off, then she put her hand in his and still chatting sociably, they walked down the veranda. Just as they passed out of ear-shot I had a shock; I heard the little girl call the big man papa.

Why was that a shock? Because they had been talking together with so much evident pleasure, so much sociability, that it had never occurred to me that father and daughter could be their relationship. I had fancied the man was a hotel acquaintance or possibly an uncle.

Nor was this an unaccountable mistake of mine. I am sure you would have been deceived in just the same way. For if you will take notice, I think you will find that you seldom hear members of the same family talking to each other with the same sociability, the same courtesy, the same interest with which they would talk to outsiders.

A little boy I used to know once gave a most naive proof of this fact. He had taken a deep interest in two of his mother's guests, and after they had gone, he asked his mother what relation to each other they were. She told him that they were husband and wife. "Are you sure?" he asked. "Of course," she said, much astonished at his doubts. "Why?" "Well," answered the youngster, "I didn't think they could be, because even when you were out of the room they talked a lot to each other just like—why just like friends."

There is no doubt whatever that ninety-nine people out of a hundred have a totally different tone of voice and manner for their family from that which they use for their friends. Notice when some member of your family goes from the family circle to the telephone—surely a whole jar of honey has been suddenly upset into her voice—there is such an astonishing change in it.

Or mark how differently father speaks to mother and the maid when something is wrong in the household economy. Not that he prefers the maid to mother—it is simply because the maid is an outsider and, therefore, entitled to a decently pleasant voice and a measure of courtesy, even when fault must be found.

Now, of course, I realize that it is not either possible or desirable to treat one's family exactly as one does outsiders. I admit that there are forms and artificialities in our intercourse with strangers which it would be absurd to carry into the home. But I do think that most of us might treat our housemates more "like friends" as the little boy said, without being uncomfortably formal.

We say that home is the one place where we can be our real selves. Surely that cannot mean anything but our best selves.

Heart and Home Problems

MRS. ELIZABETH THOMPSON

Dear Mrs. Thompson—I am a girl of 17 and have been going with a young man of 20 for a year and four months. He has been treating me awfully cool. I am a good friend of his sister and go to his house to visit her and he does not pay any attention to me. What is your advice?

M.B. Drop him. He is tired of you and probably thinks you visit his sister just to see him.

Dear Mrs. Thompson—I have been married six years and wife and don't get along very well. She doesn't give me any consideration when around home. She is a good woman and puts in all the time keeping house. I would like her to pass some time with me when I am home. She acts more like a hired girl than a wife.

M. S. Dear Mrs. Thompson—I am a girl of 20 and not bad looking, a brunette with dark brown eyes. I like blond getting any. I've had lots of gentlemen friends, but they were all dark. There is one fellow. I like very much. I see him every day as he is employed in the same firm I am. He is nice and very friendly and always speaks to me, but never has much to say, and I think he is bashful, for he blushes every time he speaks to me. Please tell me how I can get better acquainted with him without letting him know I care for him.

BROWN EYES. If he likes you he'll find a way of getting acquainted. The probability is just the same when he talks to other girls. But why prefer blonds? I wouldn't turn down a good man just because of the color of his hair.

Dear Mrs. Thompson—Some time ago I met my chum's beau at her home. A few days later they had a quarrel and now I am quite sure they will not be friends again. This friend of her treat me very nice that evening. I would it be proper if I would call the friend up? I have his telephone number and would like very much to get acquainted with him. My chum would like very much to go with him again, but it seems he does not care for her friendship.

M. A. D. It would be despicable of you to try and win him, especially when you know your chum still likes him. Besides, if he cared anything about you, he would do the calling up and not wait for you.

Dear Mrs. Thompson—(1) Is it proper to go with a gentleman friend to spend the evening with his folks very often? (2) Is it proper to go with a gentleman to a restaurant for lunch after the theatre? (3) Would it be all right to go with a gentleman friend on the train to a town some distance away, to spend the day?

JANE. (1) Not very often. He should visit at your home oftenest. (2) If you are 18 or more, and a sensible girl, there would be no harm in it. (3) You should not go alone with him.

Dear Mrs. Thompson—I am a young girl about 28 years old and have had several chances to go automobiling with a young man. Do you think it is proper for me to accept his invitation or should I wait a few years longer, as from what I can hear young girls are talked about it soon riding with a young man alone?

UNCERTAIN. "Young girls of 28" are old enough to govern themselves in such a matter as this. I suspect the writer of this letter is trying to "kid" somebody.

Dear Mrs. Thompson—(1) I am just 16 years old and have been married three months. Is it right for me to go to dances without my husband, when he says he is too tired to go? (2) Will peroxide make the hands white? (3) What will whiten buckskin shoes? (4) When a boy friend comes from out of town to visit his girl friend, is it right for him to stay at her house?

(1) No. Why not try to make the evenings pleasant at home for both yourself and your husband? (2) It will whiten the skin. Use lemon juice. (3) You can buy a preparation at a shoe store that is very good. (4) It would be better for him to board somewhere else if possible.

STIMULATION AND HIGH THINKING.

The reader who asks for an opinion on the view of Dr. Charles B. Reed in the July Forum, that toxemia or poisoning may serve as a valuable stimulus in literature, as suggested in the case of De Quincey, who used opium continuously, Johnson, who was an inveterate coffee drinker, and Poe, Burns, and many others, who used alcohol, probably recognizes the right of doctors to differ. It is not so long since the opinion prevailed that alcohol was generally beneficial as a stimulant, but this is not now the best opinion. Literary men are usually sensitive, and such temperaments are more likely to crave stimulants and to become addicted to them than the average, and when one becomes so addicted, the customary stimulant seems to be beneficial, even necessary; but it does not follow that such stimulant is an aid to mental efficiency. It would not be reasonable to suppose that Longfellow or Whittier or Mrs. Hemans or Harriet Beecher Stowe would have done better work if they had habitually used opium or alcohol. If the best literary work had been done by men and women addicted to demoralizing habits, it might be reasonable to conclude that such habits were the cause of their superior literary capacity, but Shakespeare, Milton, Gray, Goldsmith, Isaiah and most of the greatest literary workers did not use stimulants, or at least not excessively. Many of the greatest literary works have been produced in the garret on dry crusts. High feeding is not conducive to high thinking, much less is high stimulation.

A WOMAN'S OBSERVATIONS
by E. K. Woolley

such criminals will be able to go scot free, in most instances, or be punished only by a small fine or short imprisonment if they are caught.

We all appreciate a legitimate interest in our affairs, from our neighbors, acquaintances and friends. We would feel dreadfully lonesome if no body cared who we are, what we do, whether we live or die. As one dear old friend said, after a year in a city flat—her husband had rented their farm and they had come to the city to "take life easy."

"I never was so lonesome in my life. People pass by my door and don't even look in. I don't know who lives next to me and I'm sure they don't know I'm here at all. Nobody knows whether anybody is sick or well, and I guess if one of us would die, nobody here would care, and maybe we wouldn't even know it until the funeral."

"Out in the country we didn't live very close together, but we 'neighed'! If we had any going-on, we all got together and helped each other and had a good time together. We knew what was happening to each other, and we helped and sympathized and rejoiced. And I want to go back where people care about you."

There was gossip in that country, too, but it was kindly gossip—the kind of gossip we don't want to eliminate; the sort that shows a sympathetic interest in you and yours. It forms a sort of intimate bond between families dependent upon each other for society, so that later on, even after years of separation, these people will meet with a kiss or handshake that means much more than an ordinary greeting.

HOUSEHOLD TALKS
by Henrietta D. Grauel

I HAVE just learned from Artemus Ward that crabapples are the parent of the almost innumerable varieties of apples that we use for jellies, butters, cider and vinegar and table use. And that it was for these that Adam and Eve fell.

Adam was the first man; Eve she was his spouse.

They ate apples and went to keeping house. This would make any one lose all respect for this unfortunate couple; if it had been a magnificent golden pippin or a dainty maiden blush, or a sweet June harvest apple, there would have been some excuse, but crabapples are small, hard, acid and inedible.

They make the finest of all jellies, however, and look very tempting pickled in a rich, sweet syrup, made as directed in this column last week, or as follows:

Leave the stems on the apples but remove the blossom; use only fine fruit. Stick three cloves into each apple and place them in a steamer to cook tender while you prepare a syrup in the proportion of four pounds of sugar to seven pounds of fruit and one quart of vinegar. When the apples are tender and the syrup ready simmer all together ten minutes. Then pack the apples into jars and continue boiling the syrup until it is thick and rich; pour it over the fruit and seal at once. Spices may be tied in a cloth and boiled in the syrup, but most persons fancy putting the cloves inside the apples.

Apple preserves, like all other preserves, require the greatest care in making. An economy of time and trouble proves to be a waste of fruit. The best are made by putting only a small quantity at a time into the prepared syrup.

Peel peaches and pears and quinces and apples and throw them at once into cold water to prevent them turning dark.

The old rule of a pound of fruit to a pound of sugar no longer holds good since the introduction of self-sealing jars; three-quarters of a pound of sugar suffices, whether glass or tin cans be used, provided they be well sealed.

Quinces, pears, watermelon rind and some small fruits barden when put into the boiling syrup, so particular cooks steam them or cook them first in a little water or in a weak syrup, add the cooked thick syrup afterward. Apples quartered, peaches, tomatoes, plums and those fruits that may become too soft by long cooking.

EAT WITHOUT FEAR! NO SICK, SOUR GASSY STOMACH OR INDIGESTION.

Do some foods you eat hit back—taste good, but work badly, ferment into stubborn lumps and cause a sick, sour gassy stomach? Now, Mr. or Mrs. Dyspeptic for this down: Pape's Diapepsin digests everything, leaving nothing to sour and upset you. There never was anything so safely quick, so certainly effective. No difference how badly your stomach is disordered you will get happy relief in five minutes, but what pleases you most is that it strengthens and regulates your stomach so you can eat your favorite foods without fear.

Most remedies give you relief sometimes—they are slow, but not sure. Diapepsin is quick, positive and puts your stomach in a healthy condition so the misery won't come back.

The KITCHEN CABINET

LET us treat these bodies with as much consideration as we would a good machine, giving them proper care, food and rest.

"Of a good beginning cometh a good end."

HELPFUL HINTS.

When suffering from a nervous headache, try walking slowly backward for about ten minutes, placing first the ball of the foot on the floor and then the heel.

A teaspoonful of turpentine added to the boiler of clothes will greatly aid in the whitening process.

In sudden attacks of illness, when a fire must be built and not a quicker remedy is at hand, take the stove lid, wrap it in paper and a cloth and use it to apply heat.

Newspaper used to rub windows will keep them bright; also they make a fine polish for the kitchen range. Always have a folded paper and wax to rub the flat irons, and a bundle of newspapers makes a good rest for the feet when ironing.

Saturate pails and tubs with glycerine and they will not shrink.

Often a tight shoe may be stretched by applying a cloth wrung out of boiling water.

A small fire in a clean grate is the best of ventilators.

A spoonful of vinegar put into water that fowls are cooked in makes them more tender.

An old bedspread makes a good slippers cloth, and the small pieces are fine for wash cloths.

When preparing meat for sausage, time is saved if the salt and spices are mixed and added before grinding. Layer cakes will not stick to the pan if after they are greased a little flour is dusted over them.

Cream a little old will not curdle in coffee if beaten before using.

Milk will not scorch so easily if the dish is rinsed in cold water before using.

To polish windows, dip a cloth in dry starch and rub over the glass, then polish with a dry cloth. Clothes are worn more by flopping on the line than by rubbing on the board. They should be taken in as soon as dry.

Answers to Correspondents

THERE are thousands of women today who would give a great deal to be taken from the ranks of the flat-chested, hollow-necked and otherwise, and it is a simple matter, too, if only the right means are employed. Even women who have become mothers and who are for that reason peculiarly susceptible to either lack or loss of bust development may surely acquire the charm they seek in a half-pint of cold water dissolved two ounces of rucene and half a cup of sugar, all well mixed together. Of this take two teaspoonfuls three or four times a day in a wineglass of water after your meals. The rucene will cost you one dollar at any drug store. Some cases are obstinate but in any case a faithful use of it will bring success.

PRUDENCE—Yes, a shampoo is also a scrubbing, necessary for hair health. The following shampoo, you will find to have a remarkable effect, giving gloss to the hair, taking all dandruff and scalp scales off, and cleansing the pores. Besides, it makes the hair easy to handle.

Dissolve one teaspoonful of eggol in half a cup of hot water. When entirely dissolved and the solution has become lukewarm, pour over the hair and shampoo in the usual manner. The eggol will let you have the eggol for not more than twenty-five cents, and makes an exquisite lather. After rubbing it well into the scalp, an it is perfectly clean, wash the hair thoroughly with plenty of warm water, and rinse with cold water.

MISS FALLING HAIR—Any woman may absolutely stop this bad condition. The hair roots need stimulation. Hair falls because the hair follicles are dying up. Ordinary hair topics merely stimulate a little, many do not do this. The rucene makes the hair grow and I would advise using no other treatment than this.

With a half pint of water mix half a pint of alcohol. Shake thoroughly, and it will then be ready for use. If you prefer, you can use a mixture of rum instead of water and alcohol.

The beta-quinal you can get at almost any drug store for not more than fifty cents.

This formula should be applied very freely on the scalp after brushing it generously for a few minutes all over. Rub the beta-quinal thoroughly into the scalp with the finger tips.

AMANDA S.—I received a letter some time ago from a mother who stated that since using the formula I gave, a while ago in these columns, she had been taken for the sister of her 17-year-old son. Crow's feet, wrinkles in forehead, about the mouth and cheeks had been taken away. There is but one thing that I know of that does it.

In a large bowl, pour half a pint of hot, but not boiling, water. Place this bowl in a pan of water on a slow fire. In a few minutes add two ounces of eggol and continue stirring until all is dissolved. At first it will look like jelly, then it will start to cream. When it does this, remove from the fire, add slowly two tablespoonfuls of glycerine, and stir constantly until cold. Keep in a sterile jar. You should be able to get eggol at any good drug store, and it should not cost you more than three cents. Rub in well until cream disappears. This will not grow hair.

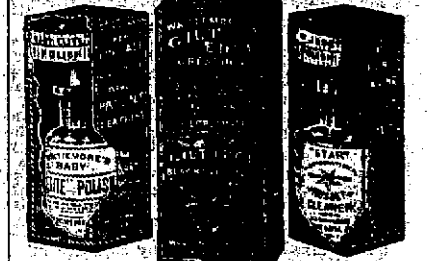

E. O. H.—You will have no excuse for pimples or skin eruptions if you will use faithfully the following:

Dissolve twelve ounces of granulated sugar, one ounce of salt, and add one ounce of saleratus and mix the whole together to make a pint. Sarsaparilla is a liquid which you can get at the drug store by the ounce. Get it in the original package. Take one or two teaspoonfuls of this mixture three or four times a day, with a little water if desired.

DOCTORS AT FIRST MEETING OF YEAR

NOTED CHEMIST AT THE SUGAR FACTORY

Twenty-five Members of County Medical Society Enjoyed Discussions at Meeting Last Night.

Twenty-five physicians, members of the Rock County Medical Society, met in the first meeting of the year at the city hall last night and enjoyed discussions on professional topics. Dr. F. T. Nye of Beloit was leader of the meeting. The subjects on the program were considered as announced, but Dr. H. O. Delaney of Beloit and Dr. J. V. Stevens of this city were unable to attend. The papers were read on the "Caesarian Section" or on "ediatrics, Its Importance as a Specialty in Light of Recent Child-welfare Movement." Dr. T. W. Nuzum lead a very able and interesting discussion on the first mentioned topic and the second was treated in a comprehensive way by Drs. Nye and Allen of Beloit. Dr. F. W. Van Kirk read an instructive paper on "Retrospection of the Uterus."

The next meeting of the society will be at Edgerton on the last Tuesday in October. The program and assignment of subjects is in the hands of the leader.

Following the meeting last night the doctors enjoyed a dinner at McDonald's restaurant.

You Must See The Light Of Modern Day Methods

The Modern Science of Chiropractic Will Aid You Just as it Did in This Case of Appendicitis.

This person saw the light and has been thankful for it ever since!

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:

"I am 49 years of age. I suffered four years ago with appendicitis and the doctor said that if I would have my appendix removed, I would get well. He removed my appendix all right, or at least he claims he did, but I learned to my sorrow that I got worse than better, for it left me in such a nervous condition that I would drop down wherever I changed to be, at times I could not sleep at all or stand still. After suffering for four years and trying several other doctors without help I was prevailed upon by friends to go to and try the Chiropractor, J. N. Imlay, and now I'm glad I did for after the first adjustment I could sleep all night which I have not done for over four years and I have not had a fall for over a week and the nervousness is almost gone and I cannot help but think he is going to bring me out all right. I'm giving this testimonial not for personal gain for the Chiropractor but to warn others who may be led into the same trap I was. Don't submit to an operation until you have called on the Chiropractor for he will locate the cause of your trouble in your spine and by removing the cause your disease or trouble will leave you and he will also tell you whether or not he can do anything for you before he will take your case. I cannot find words to express my feelings for the good the Chiropractor has done me already."

The Chronicles of Addington Peace

By B. FLETCHER ROBINSON
 Author with H. Conan Doyle of 'The Hound of the Baskervilles', etc.

"You'd like to see the house," he commenced again. "Come along, I'll show you round—I want a walk before dinner."

It was a most interesting ramble. We passed from room to room admiring the carved oak, the splendid pictures, the Sheraton furniture, the cabinets of old china, the armour, and the tapestry. For the manor was filled with the heirlooms of the de Launes, from whom Baron Steen rented it. And though the present peer, a broken-down old drunkard, was living in a little villa at Eastbourne on eight hundred pounds a year, the family had been a great and glorious one, finding mention on many a page in English history.

At the end of the great dining-room, set in the black-oak wainscot above the fire, was the portrait of a boy. It was a Reynolds, and a worthy effort of that master hand. The lad could have been no more than fifteen years of age, but in his eyes was that grave, distracted expression that usually comes with the painful wisdom of later years. In more closely examining the picture, I noticed that a large portion of it at the bottom right-hand corner had been repaired or painted out. I called Talman's attention to this misfortune, asking if he knew the cause.

"They painted out the wolf," he said, "and with good enough reason, too."

"A wolf?" I said.

"If old de Laune were to hear me gossiping about it he'd kick me out of the place—he would, by Jove! But with Steen in possession it's safe enough. Mind you, though, you mustn't mention it to the ladies—on your word, now."

"Yes, yes," I said eagerly, "go on."

"Such things frighten the women," he explained. "Well, it was in this way. Philipp, and he was the sixth earl, was our ambassador at St. Petersburg somewhere about the year 1790. Once when he was out hunting he shot an old she-wolf that was peering from the mouth of a cave, and inside they found a thriving family of four cubs. One of them was white, an albino, I suspect. He saved it from the dogs and took it home. When he came back to Cloudsdown the next year, he brought it along with his wife and his boy—an only son. They say it was a great pet at first, but it grew sulky with age, and finally was kept chained in the stables."

"One Christmas eve, just as dusk was closing in, de Laune was trotting down the drive—he had been hunting at a distant meeting—when he heard a fearful screaming from the lower gardens towards the cliff. He put spurs to his horse, and in two minutes was galloping through the shadows of the fir avenue towards the sea. All of a sudden his horse pulled up dead, threw him, and bolted. When he got to his feet—he wasn't hurt, luckily—what did he see but the body of his son, lying with his throat torn out, and the white wolf standing over him, the broken chain dangling at his neck."

"They say he was a giant, this Philip de Laune, and of a very wild and passionate temper. Anyway, he went straight for the beast, and, though he was dreadfully mauled, he killed it—Heaven knows how—with his bare hands. That's why the present branch of the family came by the place. Pretty gruesome, isn't it?"

"A strange story," I told him; "but why must it be kept a secret from the ladies?"

"Because the beast walks, man. There's not a laborer in Norfolk who would go into the lower gardens on any night of the year, much less on Christmas eve."

"My good Talman, do you mean to say you believe this?"

"I don't know—but I wouldn't go into the lower gardens tonight, if I could walk round. Think of it, Phillips, the white shape with the bloody jaws lurking in the shadows! Ugh—let's go and get a cocktail before—" now to tell may well turn the into an object for ridicule. I can only describe that which I saw; as for the conclusions at which I arrived there are many more practical people in the world than myself who would have judged no differently. At best it was a ghastly business.

I had returned to the dressing-table and was changing my dress-coat for a comfortable smoking-jacket when I heard it—a faint and distant cry, yet a cry which was crowded with such terror that I clung to a chair with my white face and goggling eyes staring back at me from the mirror on the table. Again it sounded, and again; then silence fell like the shutter of a camera. I rushed to the window, peering out into the night.

The great gardens lay sleeping in the dusky shadows. There was nothing to be heard; nothing moved save the curling wreaths of mist that came creeping up over the cliffs like the ghosts of drowned sailors from their burial sands below. Could it have been some trick of the imagination? Could it—and the suggestion which I despised thrust itself upon me—could it bear reference to that grim tragedy that had been played in the old fir avenue so many years ago?

And then I first saw the thing that came towards me.

It was moving up a narrow path, hedged with yew, that led from the gardens and passed to the right of the wing in which I stood. The yew had been clipped into walls some five feet high, but the eastern gales had beaten out gaps and ragged indentations in the lines of greenery, so that in my sideways view of it the path itself was here and there exposed. It was through one of these breaches in the walls that I noticed a sign of movement. I waited, straining my eyes. Yes, there it showed again, a something, moving swiftly towards the house with a clumsy rolling stride.

It was never nearer to me than fifty yards, and the stars gave a shifting light. Yet it left me with an impression that it was about four feet in height and of a dull white color. I remember that its body contrasted plainly with the dark hedges, but melted into uncertainty against a patch of snow. Once it stopped and half raised itself on its hind legs as if listening. Then again it tumbled forward in its shambling, ungainly fashion—now hidden by the yew wall, now thrust into momentary sight by a ragged gap until it disappeared round the angle of the house. Doubtless it would turn to the left, round the old chapel, across the snow-bound park, and so to the woods—where a wolf should be!

I was still staring from the window in the blank fear of the unknown, when I heard the swift tap of feet upon the road beneath me. Round the corner of the wing came a man, running with a pattering of little strides, while a dozen yards behind him were a pair of less active followers. What they wanted I did not consider; for at that moment the sight of my own kind was joy enough for me. The electric lamps in the room behind me threw a broad golden patch upon the snow, and as the leader reached it he stopped, glancing up at where I stood. The light struck him fairly in the face. It was Addington Peace!

"Did you hear that cry?" he panted; and then, with a sudden nod of recognition: "I see who it is, Mr. Phillips—well, and did you hear it?"

"It came from over there—in the fir avenue," said I, pointing with a trembling finger. "I don't understand it, Inspector; I don't indeed. There was something that came up—that yew wall behind you about a minute afterwards. I should have thought it would have passed you."

"No, I saw nothing. What was it like?"

"A sort of a dog," I stammered; "for under his steady eye I had not nerve enough to tell him of my private imaginings."

"A dog—that's curious. Are all the rest of you in bed?"

"No; they're gambling."

"Very good. I see there is a door at the back there. Will you come down and let me in, after I've had a look around the gardens?"

"Certainly."

"If you meet any of your friends, you need not mention that I have arrived. Do you understand?"

I nodded, and he hopped away across the lawn with his two companions at his heels.

I slipped on an overcoat and made my way quietly down the stairs. From the roulette-room, as I passed it, came the clink of money and the murmur of merry voices. They would not notice us, that was certain. I reached the garden doors in the center of the main building, turned the key, and walked out into the gloom of a great square porch.

As I have said, the temperature was scarcely below freezing-point, and if I shivered in my fur-lined overcoat it was more from excitement than any great chill in the air. For a good twenty minutes I waited listening and peering into the night. It was not a pleasant time, for my nerves were jangled, and I searched the shadows with timorous eyes, half fearing, half expecting. Heaven knows what hideous apparition it was with a start which set my heart thumping that I saw Peace turn the corner of the right-hand wing and come trotting down the drive towards me. There was something in his aspect that told a story of calamity.

"What is it?" I asked him, as he panted up.

"I want you—come along," he whispered, and started back by the way he had come.

We passed round the right-hand wing, under my bedroom window, and stopped where the yew walk ended. To right and left of the entrance two stone fawns leered upon us under the starlight.

"This thing you call a dog—could you see it as far as this?"

"No; the angle of the wing prevented me."

"You saw it pass in this direction. Are you certain it did not go back the way it came?"

"Yes, I am quite certain."

"Then it must either have turned up the road, in which case I should have met it; or down the road, where you would have seen it as it passed under your windows; or else have run straight on. If we take these facts as proved, it must have run straight on."

"That is so."

We had our backs to the laughing fauns. Before us lay a broad triangle of even snow, with the chapel and wing of the house for its sides, and for its base the carriage-drive on which we stood. There was no shrub or tree in any part of it that might conceal a fugitive. Close to the wall of the house ran a path ending in a small side door. The chapel, which was joined to the mansion, had no entrance on the garden side.

"If it entered this triangle and disappeared—for I am certain it was not here when I ran by—we may conclude that it found its way into the house. It had no other method of escape. Kindly stay here, Mr. Phillips. This snow is fortunate, but I wish the sweepers had not been so conscientious about their work on the paths."

Benjamin Shallcross, 269 S. River St. Janesville Wis. says: "Two years ago I had a great deal of trouble from inactive kidneys. The secretions from my kidneys contained sediment and were otherwise disordered. My back became so lame that it was difficult for me to stoop or lift and I became all run down. After using Doan's Kidney Pills a short time, these symptoms of kidney complaint disappeared and I enjoyed much better health. ## FORTY YEARS AGO

Janesville Daily Gazette, Sept. 25, 1872.—Continuation of the Storm: Last night we had a continuation of the great storm which has kept the elements in a turmoil during the past few days. Last night's installment differed from those received Saturday Sunday and Monday only in the addition of a powerful wind which, for half an hour threatened to demolish the frail structures and tender young trees which abound in the locality. Several of the shade trees in the park, and in various other portions of the city were broken down, and the air was filled with small limbs and twigs rudely broken from their parent trunks by the force of the gale. The storm broke over the city about half past seven o'clock and its component parts were rain, wind, thunder and lightning. Two tobacco sheds near the fair grounds, which with their contents belong to John J. R. Pease and J. A. McMaster, were leveled to the ground. The whole of their last year's crop of tobacco, the product of about twenty two acres was in these houses and almost the entire lot, sixteen or seventeen tons, is ruined. Julius and Byron Smith had a shed east of the fair grounds, filled with tobacco which shared a similar fate involving a loss of about a thousand dollars. South and east of the city we hear of grain and hay stacks being torn down by the wind and being more or less damaged. Dr. Henry Palmer was driving through the woods near the Afton crossing of Rock river, when an electric bolt shivered a tree near the road. The Doctor's horses became frightened and in his efforts to restrain them one of the reins broke. The team was turned about short by the accident, the buggy upset and the Doctor was thrown out on his head in a batch of mud that had accumulated by the roadside. But for the softness of this mud he would probably have been injured. He caught his horses, righted his buggy, repaired damages and proceeded on his way. W. J. Doolittle was driving home from Koshkonong and when this side of Milton Junction between the two tracks of the M. & St. P. railroad, horse, carriage and driver went off an embankment and assumed an inverted position. After considerable difficulty the vehicle and horse were extricated, taken to a stable at the Junction for the night, Mr. D. preparing to return home on the cars.

In this city there was no great destruction of property beyond the leveling of the tobacco houses of Pease and McMaster. A portion of Mosley's west side bill board came down and a large sign was torn by the gentle zephyrs from the top of a building on West Milwaukee street and wafted to the sidewalk beneath just missing a lady and gentleman in its descent.

UNCLE WALT The Poet Philosopher

BY WALT MASON

"Oh, I would amputate my head, if I possessed a cleaver or tomahawk or handsaw," said the victim of hay fever. His nose was colored so the boys mistook it for a beacon; profanely he kept up a noise that scared the village deacon. "I am so weak," he sadly sighed, "that I can scarcely totter; my face is though it had been fried, my eyes are running water. And every place I go I hear the politicians storming; they're pointing out the evils here, and things that need reforming. I've heard of many public works, but I have heard no duffer suggest a remedy for those who from hay fever suffer. The HAY FEVER remedy's as plain as day, and might be used tomorrow; for congress should abolish hay, and thus relieve our sorrow. If government were managed right, we'd all be hale and hearty. Hay fever victims! Let's unite and start the Big Sneezey party!" Alas, our poor old government! It always needs a licking! There'll always be much discontent, protesting, roaring, kicking. Until the last, soreheaded man his native sod is under, let government do what it can, it's bound to catch blue thunder.

The Funnybirds go out for a ride.
